Thank you and FSM-Product Connect Transition

Summary by Copilot

I have captured the status and handoff of the FSM-Product Connect work here:

One of the final pieces which @DIANA CABRERA and I have been working on is a 15-minute seller enablement model that brings the BVA and Target Architecture together. We built the first example around Db2, with the intent that the approach can be replicated across other products. It gives sellers a simple path from why the client should modernize, to the target technical state, to the business value of making that change.

This work would not have been possible without the leadership and collaboration from your team. A special thank you to @Satya KRISHNASWAMY and @Bryan Tang for the depth of their partnership on the Db2 assets.

I am also grateful that I will be able to carry and leverage much of what we built together into my work with the Horizon team.

Thank you again, Priya. I have learned a lot about Core Software and building the "Modernization with Trust" theme for our clients working with you and your team and am grateful for the trust and support.

Kind regards,
Monika Aggarwal
